

Sawyer Seminar Distinguished Lecture

Post-Truth Era or New Regime of Veridiction in Technoscience?

Bernadette
Bensaude-Vincent

Thursday, February 9th, 2023 at 4:00 PM

Woodburn Hall 200, Indiana University Bloomington

Or join by Zoom: <https://iu.zoom.us/j/83118961886>

Bernadette Bensaude-Vincent is a philosopher and historian of science and professor emeritus at University of Paris 1 Pantheon-Sorbonne. Bensaude-Vincent's celebrated work in the history of chemistry pushes back against a simplistic march from unscientific to scientific and captures chemistry as something multiple that struggles with its own identity. Drawing on her longstanding research into science and the public, Professor Bensaude-Vincent will be speaking on the alleged post-truth era and the challenges to the ideal of scientific experts as bearers of the truth to which we need only listen.